2025/1254 - Diversion/education

In response to your recent request for information regarding;

1: Do you currently offer a diversion/education course for people who have been caught for kerb crawling (charged or arrested under Section 51A)? If not: have you ever offered such a course, and if so, why was the course discontinued? Are there any discussions about introducing such a course at the moment?

North Wales Police have not previously provided or are currently in any discussions about any future planning to offer a diversion/education course for people who have been caught for kerb crawling.

2: If you currently offer such a course, could you please provide me with the following info:

- start date of the initiative
- how often is it running and participants per course
- Anything you might be able to share about aims/objectives
- how many people has to been offered to on an annual basis for the last 5 years
- what are the criteria for being offered the course?
- how many people chose to do the course / declined to do the course
- what was the reoffending rate for kerb crawling among those that participated in the course / did not participate in the course?

N/A.
